Alpha Seer

The Story of an Artistic Genius

Ben Lau

Introduction by renowned artist Knox Martin

“Mr. Lau, in my considered opinion, is truly one of the greatest artists of our time, unknown, unsung.”—
Knox Martin

What is art? The effort to answer this question led Ben Lau to the realization that no one knows except one who has a true appreciation for beauty—the Alpha Seer. The true artist is a natural mediator between beauty and the material world. The ability of Alpha Seeing is native to him. Such an artist is able to work magic with his subjects, which take on a spirituality that cannot decompose and become timeless. In Alpha Seer, Lau relates his fascinating career in art and his vitalizing ideas about true artistic creation.

Ben Lau is the third son of Gen. Lau Tung Choi, commander of the 63rd Chinese Nationalist Army, c. 1948. Both General Lau and Ben’s maternal grandfather are accomplished calligraphers. When Ben came to New York from China, he had no idea that he would become an artist. His meeting with the great American master, Knox Martin, in 1976 set him on the path for a lifetime of artistic endeavor.
